Mass Transit

Sacramento is accessible via various forms of mass transit.

Light Rail

Sacramento Metro Transit's Light Rail services Sacramento residential communities along the I-80, Hwy 50 and Hwy 99 corridors. It stops right next to the Commission on "O" Street. The system serves downtown along a "Y-shaped" route; one leg going north-east to I-80 to Watt Ave., another leg going east along the Highway-50 corridor, and the newest line going south along Highway-99.

Amtrak

Amtrak station is located at "C" and 5th streets. Taxis are available from there to the Commission. Or it is a brisk 15 to 20 minute walk (about 15 city blocks).

Walk south away from train station down 5th Street until Capitol Ave.

Turn (east) left on Capitol Ave.

Turn (south) right on Ninth Street.

Commission building is on Ninth Street between "O" and "P" streets.

Greyhound Bus

Greyhound Bus depot is located at 8th and "L" streets, four blocks from the Commission.

Walk east to Ninth Street.

Turn right on Ninth Street and walk three blocks to "O" Street.

Commission building is on Ninth Street between "O" and "P" streets.

Parking

Parking is available at meters on surrounding streets for 25-cents for 15 minutes, with a two-hour maximum. The two-hour limit is strictly enforced. One must move to another spot at the end of two hours; just putting in more money will not prevent you from getting a ticket. The city's newest enforcement is that you cannot move to another space even on the same block, even if it was an empty space in front of you. You must move to another block. This has not been as tightly enforced, but please be warned ahead of time.

There are a limited number of 10-hour meters located along the park, with parking at 50-cents per hour. Please also note the parking restriction signs for Tuesdays and between 4 and 6 p.m.
